REQUEST FOR RECONSIDERATION OF PATENT TERM
ADJUSTMENT UNDER 37 CFR §1.705(d)

Sir:

U.S. Patent 7,452,913 has been granted a patent term adjustment of 517 days. For reasons set forth below Applicants request a patent term adjustment of 1051 days. The issue in this case is the method of calculating the patent term adjustment to be granted to a patent based upon the Patent Office failure to grant the patent within 3 years from the filing date.

Under the recent decision of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia (Wyeth et al. v. Jon W. Dudas) (September 30, 2008) the patent term adjustment is the sum of prosecution delays attributable to USPTO and the delay in issuing the patent beyond the three years from the filing date, less any period of actual calendar overlap between the prosecution delays and the issuance delay. In addition, Applicants' delay and certain other periods set forth in 35 U.S.C. § 1.54(b) are also excluded. In the present case, there were Applicants' delays of 128 days.

There are two periods of USPTO delay in the present case. The first period begins 14 months after the filing date, that is, on April 12, 2005. This delay period ended on

Patent Appl. No. 10/776,337
Docket No. PC28117A
Filing Date: February 12, 2004

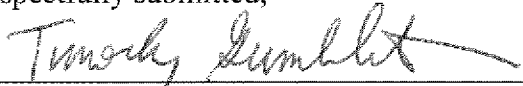

September 28, 2006, when the USPTO mailed a restriction election of species requirement. This first period is 534 days of USPTO delay.

The second period of delay began three years after the filing date of this application, that is, on February 12, 2004. This delay continued until the issuance of the patent on November 18, 2008. This period is 645 days of USPTO delay. Since there is no overlap between the prosecution delays and the delay in issuance, Applicants are entitled to a patent term adjustment equal to the sum of the two USPTO delay periods minus the Applicants' delays, that is, a patent term adjustment of 1051 days.

Included herewith is a detailed calendar of the patent term adjustment for this patent. This patent is not subject to a terminal disclaimer.

Applicants believe that pursuant to 37 CFR 1.18(e), a $200.00 processing fee is due in connection with this application for patent term adjustment. Please charge the required fee(s) to Deposit Account No. 16-1445. Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
